STREET ART FESTIVAL

26 - 28 APRIL 2024

ACKNOWLEDGEMENT OF COUNTRY

The City of Kingston Acknowledges the Bunurong Peoples' of the Kulin Nation as Traditional Owners and Custodians, and pays respects to their Elders past, present and emerging. The Bunurong People occupied areas of south eastern Victoria for tens of thousands of years, their traditional lands stretched from what is now known as the Werribee River, Westernport Bay, Phillip Island, Wilson's Promontory and Port Phillip Bay. Before European settlement, the Mayone-bulluk clan lived around the Carrum Carrum Swamp, while the Ngaruk-Willam clan were based around Mordialloc.

SHAUN HOSSACK FESTIVAL DIRECTOR

I'm incredibly excited to showcase a diverse range of urban creativity this year at our first-ever Wall to Wall festival in Mordi Village. From vibrant installations to captivating murals, our program celebrates the essence of street art culture. Each piece tells a unique story, reflecting themes of community, resilience, and imagination. Join us as we transform ordinary spaces into extraordinary canvases, inviting you to explore this rich tapestry of urban expression. Welcome to a world where creativity knows no bounds and the streets become a platform for the community to engage with artistic dialogue and inspiration.

WELCOME

JENNA DAVEY-BURNS MAYOR

What do you see when you look at these walls? A statement or a question? What conversations does this art start for you? Whether you've come from near or far, there is something here for you to muse. We are ecstatic to have the Wall to Wall Festival here on Bunurong Boonwurrung land bringing big names but also making space for emerging talent. This energetic blast of creative talent is also accelerating the ongoing transformation of Mordi Village, bringing a colourful, artistic layer to the metamorphosis of this emerging area.

Street art is a raw, impermanent, and open way of expressing ideas outside of the confines of convention. I am super proud of Kingston's growing and vibrant arts and cultural scene and a true believer in the power of public art to enrich our communities....educating, challenging and reflecting us. Massive thanks to the artists, organisers and local traders and to everyone who has come to enjoy this weekend street party.

Enjoy all that Mordi Village and wider Kingston has to offer – we love having you!

ADNATE

Matt Adnate seeks to capture the essence of humanity in his artwork, using portraiture to convey the depth and beauty of the human spirit on walls and in exhibitions. At the core of Adnate's art is a profound belief in the transformative power of art to bring about positive social change. His murals often feature monumental portraits of Indigenous individuals shining a spotlight on their culture, heritage, and struggles. He aims to amplify their voices, drawing attention to the significance of land rights and cultural preservation.

BLO

BLO's current practice displays an acute sense of awareness in moving from an urban landscape to gallery spaces, not just a shift in medium, but one of context, audience and exposure. What for many is a difficult space, it is within this quiet rift that BLO's paintings breathe. He uses creativity as a device to question, invert or pervert aspects of daily life. There is a recognizable speed of the hand, looseness of line, as well as composition and materials that directly draw from traditional graffiti. His current street work has become more figurative, drawing from religious imagery, sex, death, and classical painting. This difference in context between the street and in the studio does not divide the work, but creates a mutual relationship that ultimately strengthens both parts of his practice.

CELESTE MOUNTJOY

Celeste Mountjoy, also known as FILTHYRATBAG, is a Melbourne-based artist, author, and cultural provocateur. Her captivating work delves fearlessly into the depths of the human experience, exploring themes such as anxiety, feminism, addiction, body image, relationships, grief, and the relentless pressures of societal expectations. With a unique blend of rawness and vulnerability, Celeste's art serves as a powerful reflection of our shared struggles and challenges, providing a much-needed counterpoint to the curated ideals often perpetuated on social media platforms.

DREZ

Drez is an artist who shifts the perception of public space through his exploration of colour. Using urban structures as his canvas, Drez responds with colour gradients, following the form of the locations, subverting these structures to create immersive spaces of colour. He creates work that extends from paintings, to architecturally scaled murals and projection installations. Through his use of colour and form, Drez references Modernism and Op-Art, connecting well known contemporary art practices with contemporary public graffiti. Drez creates an intersection between abstract art and public space in a direct reflection of his upbringing through graffiti and his movement towards more experimental, immersive works.

GEORGE ROSE

George Rose is known for her large-scale murals and vibrant use of colour. After education in design at the University of Canberra, she completed her formal training at ANU School of Art before pursuing muralism supported by a studio practice. George has been commissioned by clientele from museums such as Musée Pierre-Noël de Saint-Dié-des-Vosges, France and SRAAT Museum, Amsterdam to social media giants TikTok and Instagram. Beyond commissioned work, she received invitations to participate in mural festivals and her work now adorns walls worldwide, from Australia and the US to Asia and Europe. accolades include multiple awards at the Resene Total Colour Awards in 2020 and 2023, and 'Best Mural' title at the Street Art Australia Prize in 2019.

JUSTINE MCALLISTER

Justine McAllister is a Naarm/Melbourne-based artist. She creates playful and theatrical motifs, pairing objects and symbols with abstracted elements to delve into themes of human connection and acceptance. She crafts fragmented depictions of a world she wants to live in, where creativity, open-mindedness, and difference are embraced. Her interest lies not in creating narrative but in how manipulating collage, composition, and colour can stir emotions within the viewer. McAllister holds the belief that ever-changing art should be available for everyone and for the last 10+ years, she has focused her practice on large-scale murals for the public art space.

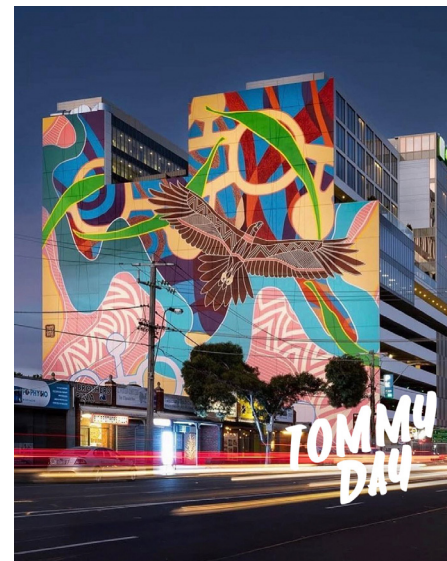

KYLE BRIGHTSIDE

As a kid, Kyle grew up skateboarding, surfing, riding his BMX around the streets and loved road trips around Australia. Being around skateboarding exposed him to the crazy, colourful & unapologetic world of skateboard graphics and street art. He worked his way into the Events Industry and managed some events around Australia before transitioning into non-profit/community events where he enjoyed running some of Australia's leading fundraising events and campaigns. He loved being able to contribute to the community in such a positive way. After almost 15 years in the Events Industry he decided to quit and pursue his art as his full time career.

SMUG

Originally from Australia, Smug has called Scotland home for over 20 years. An internationally renowned artist known for his realistic large-scale mural installations Smug takes inspiration from people and nature, exploring the harmony in the relationship between the two. With his trademark understanding of light and shadow Smug's painting can often juxtapose themes together such as death, playfulness, melancholy and unadulterated joy. Whilst his technique stays true to his foundation with traditional graffiti Smug's murals can be seen as "stylized realism" with hyper realistic elements achieved freehand, primarily with spray paint.

TOMMY DAY

Tom Day, aka Jirri Jirri Art is a Gunditjmara, Yorta Yorta and Wemba Wemba man and multi-disciplined artist based in Shepparton, Victoria. Capturing the essence of country is everything, vividly etched in his memories as a young Gunditjmara, Yorta Yorta, and Wemba Wemba man. Its intricate tapestry unfolds as the seasons dance on the precipice of change, leaving an indelible mark on the land while its essence remains constant. Through his artistic lens, he paints the world as seen with an Aboriginal perspective, envisaging the spirits living in harmony with the people and animals. Seamlessly melding traditional and contemporary art forms, he provides a visual voice to acknowledge where he came from and moving towards a bright future.

ZOER

Frédéric Battle, also known as Zoer, was born in 1985 in Tours, France. He lives and works in the French Alpes Maritimes. Battle graduated from the Strate school in product design: the study of the object has determined his pictorial research. At a time when the materials used in industry are designed according to dizzying consumption patterns, the degradation of forms and materials worked by man is at the heart of his plastic explorations. It is notably by looking at wrecks that he explores the state of transformation and transition of matter and form.
